

GUIDANCE. UNDERSTANDING. SOLUTIONS.

Divorce doesn't have to be bitter

Mediation is a non-adversarial method of coming to an agreement on the terms of separation and divorce. Working with a neutral third party, mediation allows for the resolution of disagreements in an open, cooperative atmosphere and can preserve relationships between children and their parents.

Unlike traditional divorce, a mediated divorce protects the emotional well being of each partner. Mediation is also less expensive and time-consuming.

If you believe you might benefit from this saner, more sensible way to end a marriage, consider talking with Divorce Mediation Professionals. With over 30 years of experience, it's one of the oldest and largest law firms exclusively practicing mediation in the New York metropolitan area.

DMP has helped thousands of couples through the entire process of ending their marriage from drafting their separation agreement through processing their divorce through the court system. All of the professionals on staff are full-time mediators, and the firm offers a unique combination of legal and counseling expertise.

Some of our clients need the extra support of a therapist during and after their marriage's end. Our roster of mental health professionals to which we refer clients can work with a wide range of issues, including providing referrals for parent coordinators, working with parents of special needs children and counseling individuals struggling with substance abuse.
